Our Journey

Sixty years ago, there were a total of fifteen business aircraft in the world. The majority were owned and operated by oil companies in the United States.

By 1991, when Don Bass, Chris Ellis, and Bob Rabbitt, incorporated Avpro, the number of business aircraft had soared to 7000.

Aircraft became vital to the world economy and complicated to trade. This created a need for people who knew the value of aircraft and understood the market.
